EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

2. Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Lynne M. Blank on July 8, 2004.

3. The application has been amended as follows:

- Cancel Withdrawn Claims 7-12 and 16.

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: As the claims were read and interpreted in light of the specification, the prior art of record fails to specifically disclose a transaction card and a method of making a transaction card having machine readable information and a visible display comprising a card body, machine readable information on the card body, and, in particular, a flexible addressable matrix display made of pressure-insensitive polymer dispersed cholesteric liquid crystal material, and more specifically, where the material overlays a first transparent patterned conductor and is overlayed by a second conductive patterned conductors such that row conductors are interconnected to the second patterned conductors with contacts and the first patterned conductors for applying selected voltages. The closest cited prior art reference is Hasegawa (U.S. Patent No. 5,055,662). Although Hasegawa teaches a display having a polymer-dispersed cholesteric liquid crystal material (fig. 3, ref. 12) having a first planar reflective state (col. 3, lines 21-22) and a second transparent focal conic state (col. 3, lines 30-36), which is responsive to an applied voltage to display information until the voltage is removed (col. 3, lines 44-46), Hasegawa does not specifically disclose a display that is pressure-insensitive. Furthermore, the reference also does not disclose a patterned conductors, let alone a more than one layer of patterned conductors.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
